WOMEN'S RESOURCE DIRECTORY

Women face violence, discrimination and inequality from the womb to the tomb in our country. In 2008, according to the National Crime Records Bureau, West Bengal reported the highest number of cases of Spousal Violence, the second highest number of rape cases and fifth highest number of dowry murders in the country. West Bengal also accounted for the highest number of incest rape cases.

Women and children who experience violence and discrimination need a variety of support services, particularly in crisis situations. However more often than not, they do not know whom they can approach for help. There are numerous organizations in Kolkata that provide these services but information about them is not easily available and tends to be limited. The Women's Resource Directory bridges this gap by bringing together information about the availability of these services in a handy format that women and children can keep with themselves at all times. The directory is an effort to provide easy access to information and assistance to women, children as well as organizations working with them.

The Directory is divided into five sections which provide details of 127 Non-governmental and Governmental Agencies that provide support services to women in crisis situations, women with disability, women with addiction/mental health issues, senior women and children. Each section is further divided according to the location of the organizations to make it convenient for women to track those that are situated close to their homes. The services provided by each organization are listed and include counselling, shelter, legal aid, health care, vocational training and income generation support, training courses, education, distress helplines, rehabilitation, life skill training, de-addiction support, old age homes, short stay homes, day care centres etc. At the outset, the Directory also lists agencies that provide emergency response services.

The first Resource Directory of this nature was published by Swayam in collaboration with Sanhita way back in 2000. This Resource Directory is compact and updated and has been compiled by Swayam and produced in collaboration with Akshara.

Swayam - A Kolkata-based women's rights organisation, committed to ending violence against women and children. On the one hand, it works directly with the women facing violence in their lives by providing them with holistic support services, motivating & mobilizing them through group activities and encouraging their involvement and contribution to broader social issues. On the other it challenges and tries to change established social norms and values that deem violence against women acceptable through generating discussions and debates, sharing and producing information on women's rights issues, conducting research, campaigning, community mobilising, networking and advocating with different state agencies to bring about socio-legal and policy level changes.

Akshara - A Mumbai based women's group, believes in changing society by changing people. It works with women and youth from lower economic and social strata of society. It supports them through information, capacity building and advocacy for women's rights.

We have tried to make the directory as complete as possible. In case you feel any organisation has been left out, please write to swayam@cal.vsnl.net.in and we shall try to include it in our next edition.
